Developing a Multiethnic Evangelism Strategy Leader: Richard Vera

Are you frustrated because your community is changing and your church isn't? Why is it that our cities are growing and our churches aren't? Discover how to develop a strategy to minister to and effectively evangelize those different from you and perhaps indifferent to you. In this workshop you will discover that it isn't about 'speaking the language' but instead 'the right approach'. This conference will deal with the 'do's' and 'don'ts' of evangelism. Discover principles of evangelism effective in all contexts.

Developing an Evangelism Team Approach Leader: Richard Vera

Two major sins prevail in the church today: the sin of silence and the sin of assuming. Most church members are conservative in their theology but atheists in their practice. The purpose of this conference is to confront the 'fear factors' that hinder evangelism as well as the 'faith factors' that enhance evangelism. We will also discover that what seems obvious to us is new to our neighbors. Finally, we will explore the essential steps that will allow us to work with others in order to share the task.

How do you connect with them? Hearts & Hands may be the solution. Returning to New Testament Missional Living Leader: Paul Salem (pseudonym)

Churches often pursue mission haphazardly, with a scatter-shot approach. God has revealed Himself to be on mission in the Bible, always in pursuit of a reconciled relationship with Him. We, as the church of God, are called to that same kind of mission. We will look at patterns and principles in the Bible that have application for how we live out Jesus in our communities with more of a foundation and more intentionality.
